Tarot Readings, Backend, Email Sales Letters

A new way of writing email copy

Zhihao Huang

A big reason why offers don't scale and always have up and down profit days:

Is because the backend is weak.

Relying on the frontend to be profitable and the big Zucc to pay the bills.

Recipe for disaster and lots of:

I was making lots of money first 2 days but now 2 days nothing? What do I do

This is where having creativity, fresh ideas and a deep understanding of your customer psychology plays a role.

Here's what you will discover in this issue:

- The 4 backend offers that allowed me to scale in the RED while profiting more than 50% in the end.
- A new way to write backend offers using EMAIL SALES LETTERS.
- How I VALIDATE offers on email before launching them on COLD TRAFFIC.

The following issue is a paid newsletter.

It's a continuation of this article:

Alright let's discuss the FIRST email they get - about 2 hours into buying the main frontend.

So yes - you put the WHOLE sales letter in the email and link straight to the checkout.

I'll explain why later.

This was my bread and butter backend.

The first one is called Twin Flame Tarot.

Which is an automation that sends a couple hours after they buy the main love spell offer.

The next one is called Judgement Day.

And when I ran it on the backend money flew in like crazy.

The underlying thread of most of these promos is revenge.

Always works good. No matter the niche.

The next one is called Tea Reading.

Pretty straightforward.

The next one is called Hex Her.

Again - works great because it continues the theme of a rival.

This one eventually became a bump offer for the main product - because it sold SO WELL.

Lesson 1: Engagement creates sales.

Opening -> reading -> clicking -> replying -> buying.

If you can get your customers to take an action or participate in an EXPERIENCE, that creates engagement which leads to sales.

It's important that you have a STRONG customer support for this that replies fast to emails, and gets conversations going.

This was the secret I talked about in one of my earliest podcasts:

https://youtu.be/dHey\_YWDQUA?si=8FYB3kp4OJHqQSk8

And one Iranian guy applied this successfully to generate 20k-30k USD a day on the love spell offer.

Allegedly having 100 customer support VAs all with the sole goal of creating ENGAGEMENT.

Lesson 2: Email Sales Letters Straight To Checkout Typically Outperform Email Clicks To Sales Letter

Especially when you have a "superlist" of buyers.

Reason being that everyone who opens the emails sees your sales letter.

Say you have a 30% open rate, and an average of a 5% click rate.

If you link to the sales letter from the email that means only 5% of people see your actual sales letter.

But if you put the whole sales letter in the email, 30% of people see your sales letter, and 5% click to checkout.

With high purchasing intent.

I wouldn't do this in an aware B2B market.

But in mass markets...

In less "aware" markets this is extremely powerful.

Because you can play around with scarcity timers.

And you can use heavy personalisation like I did in the Tarot reading.

Lesson 3: The more offers you send the more you make

It was a bit of a counterintuitive lesson for me at first.

But the more different offers you send to your list, especially mass market b2c, the more you make.

Buyers buy.

And the more different, fresh, offers you put in front of them, the more they have the opportunity to spend.

That's it for this paid newsletter issue.

If you have any questions, as always just hit the reply button, I read all the email replies from paid subs.
